VANILLA.

SO long ago as May last we advised our friends that the future of the article looked to higher prices, each following month confirmed our views as correct.

At this writing all interested both here and abroad, consumers and sellers admit the facts.

Those best acquainted with the situation do not look for lower prices for at least a year to come.

A peculiarity of the trade the past year has been the large demand for medium grades, leaving the very finest, of the former there is but a little left, and consumers will be forced eventually to take the best at a very high figure.

There is no help for this situation, neither the Vanilla in sight nor to follow (New Crop) already estimated, can by any possible means supply the legitimate demands for the coming year.

During this entire year there has been an entire absence of speculation in the article here and in Europe; consequently enhanced values are caused wholly by the laws of supply and demand.
